Many expensive books have been purchased this year, and later publications, some of which are the following:

Admiral's log, Evans; Boy's life of U. S. Grant, Nicolay; British Isles, Tomlinson; Education and the larger life, Henderson; Essays on modern novelists, Phelps; Fight for conservation, Pinchot; Great white plague, Otis; House plants and how to grow them, Barnes; In and out of a French country house, Dodd; My Mark Twain, Howells; With Stevenson in Samoa, Moors; Webster's New Unabridged Dictionary.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board of Greenland:

As I have been connected with your school system for only a part of a school year, my report should necessarily be brief. Much time is required for one to familiarize himself with the conditions existing in four distinct and separate school districts, as is the case in this supervisory union.

My efforts have been confined almost wholly to classroom studies and management. The schools were graded, and, to a certain extent, following work as outlined in the State Program of Studies. This is a good, general outline, but needs to be extensively supplemented to meet local conditions. Accordingly, an outline of work, based on the State Course, has been placed in the hands of teachers and indicates work for each class, grade and text. This I find should be revised and made more specific for another year. Progress in class work is followed by personal inspection, monthly reports and conferences with teachers. Semi-term reports are sent to parents and certain records kept at schools. Returns from reports are kept on file at the schools and returns from my general tests are made to each teacher, that the work may be compared with the results obtained in other towns.

Some few changes in text books were made with the object in view of placing pupils of a grade in, so far as possible, the proper books, to replace some worn and filthy books and to secure later editions. This matter of books is one that is ever present and never settled, tho any change must be made so as not to interrupt the progress of the pupils. It is no small matter to select material from the vast amount now on the market, tho it is a good thing to have such an array from which to make selection. Many subjects, which are undoubtedly of great value, must necessarily be omitted for the present. I refer to vocational lines which are, at this time, largely in the experimental stage in public schools. It is the task of the board and superintendent to keep such branches of study progressing in the schools as conditions will permit and such as will serve the best interests of the general public. With few exceptions, the grades are not up to the standard we hope to have and should have. It is difficult to get pupils to understand that progress is not measured by pages in books but by what they can do. Another reason for the standard as it is, is on account of the attendance and accommodations, to be mentioned.

The work in music, under the direction of Miss Hoyt, is showing results of which the town should justly feel proud, to say nothing of the personal satisfaction the pupils will have in after years on account of the knowledge thus being received.

The school equipment is far from what it should be. The improvements at the Primary room were good, but no more than is done in most places each year to keep a room fresh and clean. The addition of new toilets at the Grammar school was imperative.

Before the Fall term began, all the seats and desks were replaced at the Grammar room to afford more comfort and to be better arranged for the physical welfare of the pupils, so far as such poor furniture can be arranged or adjusted. The same should be done at the Primary room before next term. Provisions for comfort and health are entirely inadequate at both buildings in the light of present knowledge of what is good in such matters. At best the ventilation is poor and while, within a radius of a few seats from the stoves, the pupils are roasting, those in the front and far corners are freezing. Note the accommodations for the small people at the Primary school for toilet purposes. Must travel out doors in all weathers to reach the out-building. There are conditions few people in these times would permit in their own homes, yet allow children to endure them six hours a day. In 1847 the town provided the best known equipment. The old saying that "what was good enough for me is good enough for my children", is selfish in the extreme. You are not giving as good as you had in the way of a school house. While it is true that in the good old days a greater number were housed and schooled in one room, the fact remains that we are living in the present age and dispensation, and the demands of the times must be considered. The best work cannot be done under the present circumstances. 40 pupils are too many for teachers with one grade to get the best results. We had 40 in four grades at the Grammar room and 35 at the Primary. Under ordinary and desirable circumstances, the present third grade, numbering ten pupils, should, with very few exceptions, go to the Grammar room next Fall term, while there are only six in grade eight, all of whom will probably not be ready for high school, owing to this crowded condition of room, grades and time. There were 17 enrolled in grade one at Primary room last September. A very few may need to repeat next year, and, with new pupils entering next Fall at this school, will make three full grades, in which some classes should recite in two divisions. This condition will make five full grades at the Grammar room next Fall and the town cannot expect any decent results under such conditions, even provided we could induce a teacher to take up the work. Money might possibly get the teacher but it cannot get the results demanded in fitting pupils for the requirements for admission to high school, or for anything else. We have reached the point where more room must be provided, and the running expenses appear, from the financial report, to be provided for, with little or no expense aside from the usual appropriation, at least for the present. Few people in town know anything about the situation. Aside from the Board, just one man and twenty women (parents and taxpayers) visited the schools last year, and these were mostly on days when some special exercises were in progress. In short, the pressing need is a modern building with modern equipment, to replace the antiquated, inconvenient, uncomfortable, unhygienic and (especially at the Grammar) unsightly buildings now in use. Owing to the tendency of trained or experienced teachers to secure positions in the larger centers of population, we must make our equipment and system attractive along the lines of modern ideas in order to secure and keep competent teachers and to compete with the larger places.

The attendance is not just what it should be in many cases. Parents can greatly aid in school work by seeing that pupils are regular and punctual in attendance. Progress is made each half day in every class, and, when a pupil is absent just that time, the class must usually be held back while he is receiving the benefit of a special explanation, or stay after school, which same is not usually agreeable. A half day to go visiting, to entertain company, attend a fair or entertainment, or on account of a slight inclemency of the weather, is not right from any point of view.

In conclusion I wish to express my appreciation for the cooperation with me of the Board and teachers.

Respectfully submitted,

EUGENE TUTTLE.

Feb. 15, 1911.

The school board estimates that six hundred and fifty dollars will be needed for High School tuition and one hundred and twenty-five dollars for books and supplies for the next school year.
